

W e l c o m e   t o   M a c   O S   X   S e r v e r

This page is just a placeholder. To publish your site, place your HTML and image files in the following directory:

/Library/WebServer/Documents/

Be sure to name your main page "index.html" and it will become the default page for visitors.

Additional resources

For the latest information about Apple, Mac OS X Server, and other Apple server products, visit:

- Apple
- Mac OS X Server

Detailed documentation on the Apache web server is available:

- In the Web Technologies Administration guide
- In the Mac OS X Server onscreen help
- In the Apache.org on-line documentation

If you have a question or encounter a problem with your server software you can:

- Search the AppleCare Knowledge Base
- Visit the Apple Support Site for an answer or a workaround.
- Join or search the Apple mailing lists for Mac OS X Server, web development, or QuickTime Streaming Server.

Group Wikis and Blogs

The Groups wiki, blog, calendar, and mailing list archive make it easy for teams to create and distribute information through their own shared websites.

Distribute files, publish podcasts, and share calendars right from your web browser, naturally, using formatting and commands you already know.

Publish your own blog, with drag-and-drop ease, using the built-in professional templates. Keep your colleagues up-to-date with projects, the files you're working on, and pictures or podcasts. Your searchable blog is the perfect place to store information for your team, or just for your own reference.